

Home > News > Chicagoland

Agency seeks to set transportation priorities for next 30 years

Big-picture regional plan puts focus on smaller, more doable projects

By Richard Wronski, Tribune reporter

5:37 p.m. CDT, August 8, 2010

E-mail Print Share Text Size
Like Be the first of your friends to like this.

For 20 years, Diane Howe, of Spring Grove, has had to zigzag across Lake County roads to get to work in Buffalo Grove.

As she drives more than an hour each way, Howe wonders if her dream roadwork project — the long-proposed extension of Illinois Highway 53 — will ever be built.

"I don't think it's ever going to happen," said Howe, 65. "It's been in the planning for how many years?"

Register with Chicago Tribune and receive free newsletters and alerts >>

If it's any consolation, the thinkers at northeastern Illinois' top planning agency feel Howe's pain and that of thousands of others who complain of traversing Lake County's labyrinth.

The Chicago Metropolitan Agency for Planning, or CMAP, has unveiled a transportation wish list that has the Illinois 53 extension and its companion project, the Illinois 120 corridor, at the top.

The roster of projects highlights the little-known agency's big-picture comprehensive plan, Go to 2040, which outlines a vision for the next 30 years and sets priorities for the seven-county region, including Kendall County.

The 400-page document also recommends fundamental changes in the way Chicagoans pay for their highways and mass transit system, including higher gasoline taxes and new user fees to combat congestion.

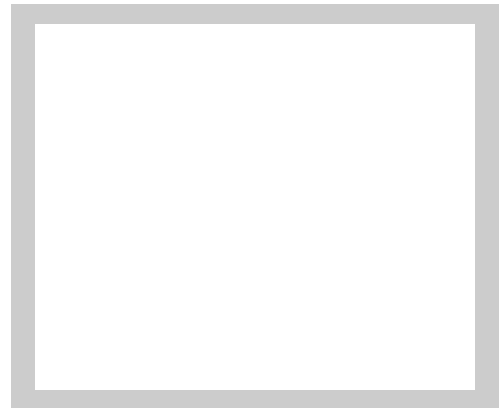

The increases are needed because the days of funding windfalls from Washington and Springfield are over, said Randy Blankenhorn, CMAP's executive director.

"We know the (funding) resources just aren't there to do everything there is to do," Blankenhorn said. "We have to invest what we have more wisely and focus on improving the economy and the environment."

Whereas legendary Chicago planner Daniel Burnham is credited with the famous quote, "Make no little plans. They have no magic ...," the message from Go to 2040 seems to be: "Make no big plans. We have no money."

Instead of backing multibillion-dollar projects such as the proposed suburb-to-suburb Metra STAR Line and the outer-ring Prairie Parkway in Kane and Kendall counties, CMAP sets more modest goals, such

Top local stories

30-year transportation priorities
Trice: Senior archivist of black history to retire after years at library
Fixes set for dangerous Chicago crossing

Win a Joakim Noah autographed bball!
Text ALPHA and your email address to 31286. Msg & data rates may apply.

70% Off Anita Dee Yacht Charters
Get a $50 gift card for $15!

Free newsletters
Register with Chicago Tribune and receive new newsletters and alerts, delivered to your mailbox.

as completing the Elgin-O'Hare Expressway and building a western bypass around O'Hare International Airport.

The plan also says the CTA's Red Line should be extended south from 95th Street to 130th Street and a transportation center should be put in the West Loop to improve transfers among rapid transit, buses and all types of rail services.

Other recommendations include adding lanes to expressways and improving several Metra and transit lines.

All of the projects have been proposed for years, but Go to 2040 seeks to put them in line.

Strategies such as "congestion pricing" would impose additional fees on vehicles using "managed lanes" on expressways.

Congestion pricing uses variable tolls and zone-based charges to reduce traffic gridlock. For example, expressways would get express toll lanes whose rates would vary with demand and time of day.

"Transportation investments are not free," Blankenhorn said. "We have to find ways to pay for them. In some corridors, congestion pricing makes sense, especially where we add lanes. People can still choose to ride in free lanes."

Illinois' unofficial but long-standing practice of sending 55 percent of state road funds downstate and keeping 45 percent in northeastern Illinois should be scrapped, the plan urges.

"Funds for transportation need to be allocated more wisely, using performance-driven criteria rather than arbitrary formulas," the plan notes. "Expensive new capacity projects should be built only if they yield benefits that outweigh their costs."

CMAP says Go to 2040's recommended projects have been evaluated based on how much they promote economic growth and reduce congestion and how likely they are to be funded.

It's not quite a winners-and-losers list because none of the projects has guaranteed funding. But some have a better chance than others.

And opposition could continue to stall some plans. Environment groups such as the Sierra Club and some residents favor local road improvements and more mass transit instead of more concrete in Lake County.

The backbone of the Chicago region is freight railroading, and Go to 2040 calls on the federal government to develop a strategy to address freight issues.

The plan also calls for the full funding and implementation of the Chicago Region Environmental and Transportation Efficiency program. CREATE is a public-private effort to reduce bottlenecks and raise train speeds.

Go to 2040 isn't just about transportation. Much of the document focuses on other issues, including land, water use and conservation ; education and workforce development; and government and tax policy. The plan is available at cmap.illinois.gov.

It needs final approval in October from CMAP's board of directors, made up of representatives from the seven-county area. Then comes the task of implementing the plan's recommendations, which Blankenhorn acknowledged will be challenging.

Potential difficulties include convincing the public of the need to pay higher user fees for a better highway system and improved mass transit. Political opposition to raising taxes is expected.

"These are tough decisions, and there will be political issues with any of our policy recommendations," Blankenhorn said. "We have to educate public officials about why it's in their best interest to do these things. Part of CMAP's role is to lead these discussions."

DePaul University transportation expert Joseph Schwieterman, who wrote the book "Beyond Burnham: An Illustrated History of Planning for the Chicago Region," says CMAP must now ruffle feathers to assure its vision produces action.

"Our region is as polarized as ever, so CMAP will need to apply a heavy dose of salesmanship," Schwieterman said. "CMAP is standing on the shoulders of giants, including Daniel Burnham, so the plan carries a surprising amount of moral weight."

Freelance reporter Robert Channick contributed to this report.

rwronski@tribune.com

Get the Chicago Tribune delivered to your home for only $1 a week >>

Copyright © 2010, Chicago Tribune

Selected for you by a sponsor:

Home Prices Drop for the First Time in 7 Months (GoBankingRates.com)

Where to Spend it: Urban Outfitters Will Begin Stocking APC Madras on August 20 (Racked)

Around the Web

The NFL's top hazing hairstyles

Chicago's Nightlife In Pictures: Take A Peek Inside Chicago's Top Nightclubs

Reality TV villains: Where are they now?

Photos: Chicagoans at the beach

Join us on Facebook

Chicago Tribune on Facebook

17,084 people like Chicago Tribune

Judy

Elizabeth

Jason

Michael

Trace

Auto news & reviews

Deep discounts on 2010 cars

2010 Cadillac SRX named top safety pick

For starters: Study up for your 1st car

Luxury drivers feel ticket pressure

Web2PDF

converted by Web2PDFConvert.com

You might be interested in:

4,000 pot plants found in North Chicago (Chicago Tribune)

What is CMAP, anyway? (Chicago Tribune)

Sondheim at Ravinia: Anger on the North Shore at truncated birthday celebration (The Theater Loop)

After 107 years in Milwaukee, Harley could leave | Chicago Breaking Business (Chicago Breaking Business)

ADS BY GOOGLE

Chicago Coupons

1 ridiculously huge coupon a day. Get 50-90% off Chicago's best!

www.Groupon.com/Chicago

TRAdvisors (TRA)

Smarter Solutions for Transit Oriented Development

www.tradvisors.net

Suburban Divorce Attorney

Martin A. Delaney III Free Initial Consultation

chicago-familylaw.com

 E-mail  Print  Reprint

 Digg  Twitter  Facebook  Home delivery  Share

Comments (4)

Add / View comments | Discussion FAQ

printdesignchicago.com at 8:20 AM August 09, 2010

yes, the funding just isn't there to pay the exorbitant and extortionist union labor costs to build all these roads. so, we're going to raise taxes on everyone so that a few can make great money doing little.

the balloon inflates a little more - when will it burst?

MisterChris at 7:42 AM August 09, 2010

How about posting a link to the actual report? I would also like to see the "2010 Plan" which was drawn up 30 years ago so we could all see how planning matched up to what actually took place.

kastigar at 6:56 AM August 09, 2010

No mention of how increasing facilities for transportation by bicycles. How come this was skipped?

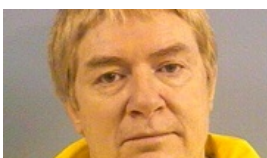

By all means increase the tax on gasoline to pay for these projects. Get the price of gas up to several dollars a gallon more. This will reduce traffic, reduce pollution, reduce dependency on foreign oil, and make the roads safer at the same time.

Great idea, but how likely are we to do that?

Also on chicagotribune.com

Photos in the news

Mugs in the news

Celebrity sightings

Your travel photos

Need advice? Ask Amy

FREE WEEKEND DAY

Third day FREE on weekend rentals of three days or more.

AVIS we try harder

GET THIS DEAL ▶

Home

Skilling's weather
Traffic
Obits
Blogs
Columns
Newsletter/alerts
Video
Photos
TV listings
Movie listings
Event tickets

Classified

Apartments
Cars
Celebrations
Commercial Dating
Shop/Deals
Fan Shop
For Sale By Owner
Garage sales
Homes
Jobs
Mortgages
Obituaries
Pets
Public records

About/Find

Contact Us
Comments/questions
Tips
Manage subscription
Advertise
Twitter
Trib Nation
News in Education
Our community
Our news focus
Photo store
Tribune store

Perks

ChicagoPOINTS
Newsletter/alerts
Tribune events
Printers Row Lit Fest
Contests & Sweeps
Puzzles
Coupons
Mobile/iPhone
RSS feeds
Read the Trib on Kindle
E-edition
Archives

News

Breaking Chicagoland
Go to Triblocal
Nation/World
Business
Health
Elections
Watchdog
Data
Obits
Schools
Topics

Sports

Breaking
Bears
Hawks
Bulls
Cubs
White Sox
College
Soccer
Tennis
Golf
Autos
Preps
Smack
Scores

Chicago Tribune

PARTNERS: | ChicagoNow | Chicago Magazine | Chicago Shopping | Chicago Weather Center | CLTV | Metromix | RedEye
Triblocal | WGN Radio | WGN-TV | Vivalo Hoy | Baltimore Sun | Daily Press | Hartford Courant | Los Angeles Times
Orlando Sentinel | Sun Sentinel | The Morning Call

Terms of service | Privacy | Feedback | Chicago Tribune, 435 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, IL 60611

A Tribune Newspaper website

Web2PDF

converted by Web2PDFConvert.com